SUBJECT: Attached note to DAD/S&D from C/GSD

A certain amount of interdepartmental recruiting seems to go on a continual basis. In particular we seem to be working all the time on I am sure we wouldn't want someone trying to negotiate with our people and I think this practice on our part is not good. Particularly, I am against trying to have the people negotiate with their bosses for a release to come to work with us. If we see outstanding people, someone we really would like to have, I think we should deal first with the appropriate AD, get his blessing, and then proceed.

Unless you object, I propose to put out a memorandum to my people indicating that I would like this practice stopped immediately; but that we will work through you to the appropriate AD to attempt to obtain people who we would like to have.
